

You are in: World: EuropeFront Page Tuesday, 8 February, 2000, 12:51 GMTWorldBattle for Chechnya: Special reportAfricaAmericasAsia-PacificEuropeMiddle EastSouth AsiaRussia's new front line*After Grozny, war not over

The Chechens may have withdrawn from Grozny, but they are going to be able to fight another day, writes Stephen Dalziel.

- Challenge of urban warfare
Defence Correspondent Jonathan Marcus explains how the Chechen rebels held out for so long in Grozny.
- Turkey shelters wounded Chechens
Events in Chechnya are being watched with concern in Turkey, where plenty of people trace their roots to the Caucasus.
- How the rebels keep fighting
Regional analyst Stephen Mulvey looks at how Chechnya's fighters have been able to sustain the war.
- How does Russia pay for the war?
Russia's war in Chechnya has a high cost.
- Can Russia win?
Russia's strategy in Chechnya appears to be a recipe for stalemate.
- Eyewitness: Feeling Russia's might
Andrew Harding with civilians on the Chechen border.
- Media swings against the military
The Russian media's support for the Chechen operation has shown signs of cracking.
- A Chechen view of the war
A Chechen representative explains why Russia has launched two wars against Chechnya.

Search BBC News Online

Advanced search optionsBBC ONE TV NEWSWORLD NEWS SUMMARYIN DEPTHBattle for Chechnya

Background and analysis

From Our Own CorrespondentLetter From AmericaUKUK PoliticsBusinessSci/TechHealthEducationSportEntertainmentTalking PointIn DepthAudioVideoChechen war on the webFORUMChechen war

Quiz Russia's spokesman on the conflict

Life at the front

Russian soldiers tell of combat in Chechnya

Internet links:Russian GovernmentHuman Rights Watch: Chechnya Renewed CatastropheChechen Republic Online

The BBC is not responsible for the content of external internet sites

Top World stories:Flood rescuers race against timeHuman rights visit to GroznyTroubled borderland

▶ The BBC's Orla Guerin

"The Kremlin is pouring in tanks and troops"

📺 real 28k

▶ The BBC's Mike Williams in Chechnya

"There are those who will not leave their homes"

📺 real 28k

Who's who in the Caucasus

A guide to the patchwork of nationalities that make up the region, where they are on the map and what they have in common.

(Click here for map and at-a-glance guide)

- The first bloody battle for Grozny
Russia's 1994-95 assault on the Chechen capital Grozny was a military disaster as troops met with fierce resistance.
- Battle for the Caucasus
Moscow Correspondent Rob Parsons reports on the challenge to Russia from the North Caucasus: Watch his report.
- Chechnya's hard path to statehood
Chechnya has been running its own affairs since 1996, although Moscow still lists the Islamic republic as part of the Russian Federation.
- Chechnya making regional waves
The conflict in Chechnya has sent a wave of concern throughout neighbouring states.

Australia scraps reconciliation deadline

Sharif defence withdraw in gag protest

Mid-East envoy leaves empty-handed

Links to top Europe stories are at the foot of the page.

The challenge to Moscow

Russia, bombs and elections

Although there is no hard evidence of a link between the bomb blasts in Russia and Chechen separatists, Russia's shocked citizens are demanding action, writes Malcolm Haslett.

- Russia's demoralised army
The collapse of the Soviet Union saw the army, along with many other areas of society, fall into a depressed and penniless state.

- Who's to blame for the Russia blasts?

The Russian authorities have openly blamed militants in Chechnya for the bombs, but there are still unanswered questions.

- Russia's options

Even if Russia's authorities manage to unite to combat the threat of more bombings, it presents a huge challenge.

- Timeline: The blasts which shook Russia

Dagestan flashpoint

The Dagestan connection

Russian troops in Dagestan have been pitted against experienced guerrillas whose chosen mission in life is to fight the Russians. They are well-armed, well-funded and have enjoyed freedom of movement through most of Chechnya.

- Islamic roots in Dagestan

The mountainous republic of Dagestan is home to more than 32 ethnic groups - each one with its own language.

Profiles

Chechnya's quiet general

Aslan Maskhadov did more than any other fighter in Chechnya to win the 1994-1996 war against Russia. He also did more than any other negotiator to bring peace.

- Shamil Basayev: Chechen warlord

This feared warrior looks almost unassuming in the flesh. He is of medium height, with a bushy beard and high forehead worthy of a Moscow intellectual.

- Khatab: Islamic revolutionary
Unlike many of his Chechen comrades-in-arms, the Arab fighter known as Khatab does not seek publicity.
 - Vladimir Putin: Spy turned politician
Russia's prime minister is not renowned as a charismatic speaker, but he is a tough and resourceful man.
 - The generals behind the war
The men running Russia's war in Chechnya are a close-knit group who, some say, bear a grudge.
-

(Click here to return to top)

Links to other Europe stories

^^ Back to top

News Front Page | World | UK | UK Politics | Business | Sci/Tech | Health | Education | Sport | Entertainment | In-Depth | Talking Point | Audio/Video