

Jagbir Singh &lt;s.jagbir@gmail.com&gt;

---

HALF THE SKY: At first, Earth was just a tiny dot and he could not recognize it.

1 message

---

Jagbir Singh <s.jagbir@gmail.com>
To: Jagbir Singh <s.jagbir@gmail.com>

Mon, Jul 13, 2020 at 10:39 AM

Pale Blue Dot – 30th Anniversary

30 years ago today, scientist Carl Sagan asked NASA's Voyager 1 to spin around to capture an iconic portrait of our world. This humbling view of Earth from 6.4 billion kilometers away is known as the "Pale Blue Dot." Today, we celebrate Carl Sagan and the 30th anniversary of his valentine to planet earth.

Note: Ever since I returned to Standard One last year to learn about the Observer and Consciousness of Quantum Mechanics, I am beginning to awaken to a Universe that was hiding in plain sight all my life, and almost all human life prior.

But what I am going to say that happened on April 30, 1994 can only be denied by "dishonest disbelief", a phrase that I intend to emphasize because only my extended family members (like Jessy Kabir or Dr. Balwinder Singh or Harcharan Singh), friends and relatives can practice it.

(Caveat is on can. It is necessary because if the alternative is accepted we may stumble upon the Gates of Heaven. I also call it stumbling upon the Gate to the Vast Mind, the Universe, Quantum Mechanics, Consciousness, and the Observer.)

But understanding all that intellectual infinity will need the crunching capacity of a black-hole Mind which, though IT exists within all, renders Vastness useless for humans. It also makes them scoff or smirk because it is the nature of dishonest disbelief—their gods just don't fit this scientific strangeness! So I will use the term "Aykaa Mayee (One Mother)" as it makes me feel Her wind, hear Her raindrops, taste Her mango, see Her rainbow, and pinch Her perked nipple. Yes, HALF THE SKY is Divine! Period!)

"The question remains as to whether some kind of spiritual evolution is in progress, whether large amounts of people gradually taking up meditation and other forms of inner practice will create a critical mass of global enlightenment, or whether we will continue in what could be called the Brazilian rain forest mode. In the past, this theory goes, a small number of mystics, ascetics, monastics, wandering mendicants, and other followers of the Perennial Philosophy were capable of providing the spiritual oxygen that helped the rest of the world to breathe and that sustained the mainstream practice of religion with all its surface anomalies. These days it seems increasingly questionable whether this approach will be sufficient to redeem a crippled planet; on the whole, the evolutionary theory makes more sense. But how long will it take? The Bolivian visionary Oscar Ichazo said some years ago, "In the past eras the mystical trip was an individual matter, or at least a matter of small groups, but no longer. This is what is new in human history. Everybody can now achieve a higher degree of consciousness. . . . The vision of humanity as one enormous family, one objective tribe, may once have been utopian. Now it is a practical necessity." "

Peter Occhiogrosso, The Joy of Sects

Bantam Doubleday Dell Publishing Group, Inc., 1996 p. xxii.

"Judging by accounts of the astronauts, space travel expands the human mind. Jim Irwin of the Apollo 15 lunar mission said he "found God on the moon." Al Worden started channeling poetry when he returned home. Alan Bean said, "Everybody who went to the moon became more like they were deep inside themselves." (Bean became an artist.) Rusty Schweichert, who cried while looking at the stars from outer space, "fell in love with the Earth," and found himself asking soul-searching questions like "Who am I?" Edgar Mitchell of the Apollo 14 flight was "overwhelmed with a divine presence," experienced Earth and the universe as "an intelligent system" in a way that was at odds with his scientific training, and founded the Institute of Noetic Sciences.

In destroying the Earth, we may stumble upon the gates of heaven. In being driven to explore outer space, we may discover the secrets of inner space. All the mistakes we have made so far may one day be looked upon as the blunderings of adolescence, the errors we had to make before our childhood's end."

Michael Grosso, We May Stumble Upon the Gates of Heaven

(Michael Grosso, Ph.D., studied classics and philosophy at Columbia University, but after some startling personal encounters with the paranormal, he began to study reports of UFOs, Martian visions, alien abductions, near-death experiences, miracles of Padre Pio and Sai Baba, and other psychological anomalies. He directs the Cultural Imagination Centre in Warwick, New York, and is the author of The Final Choice, Frontiers of the Soul, and Soulmaker. The above essay is an excerpt from Frontiers of the Soul. Source: Georg and Trisha Lamb Feuerstein, Voices on the Threshold of Tomorrow, The Theosophical Publishing House, Quest Books, 1993, p. 6-1.)

At first, Earth was just a tiny dot and he could not recognize it.

On April 30, 1994, Kash was told to request from the Great Holy Mother another Revelation. The Sahaja Yogi who gave Kash Self-Realization explained that before the Spirit of God incarnated Herself on Mother Earth there was a major discussion in Heaven among the Divine Unity concerning human beings. Something drastic had to be done to enlighten humans before they completely destroyed themselves. Despite all the Messengers, Prophets, Messiahs and Incarnations, despite all the Wisdom of all the Holy Books, despite all social, educational and economic progress, the human species never realized Truth and were now beginning to gather speed as they hurtled down the road of self-destruction. Without Divine intervention at this critical point in history their utter annihilation was assured. It was time for the Creator to act and save His Creation.

All the Immortal Messengers of God Almighty then requested that the Great Supreme Spirit should at last go down to Earth in human form and lead humankind higher up the evolutionary path by infusing them with a massive dose of enlightenment. Who else but the very Spirit of God would be able to do such a tremendous job of en masse transformation?

Kash was just told to find out how it is possible for someone to descend directly from the Kingdom of God to Earth.

He agreed and went to meditate in his room. He closed his eyes and said the sacred mantras. Immediately the Divine Energy of the HOLY SPIRIT coiled in his sacrum bone responded. He traveled up the Tree of Life, right from its roots at the base of his spine to the Great Lotus Forest in his brains. At the optic chiasma he entered the Narrow Gate and reached the Templum Spiritus Sanctus illuminated by the Everlasting Light. He bowed down to the Spirit of the Living God and exchanged greetings. Shri Krishna, Ganesha, Jesus, Buddha, Rama, Sita, Vishnu, Lakshmi, Shiva and others were already present, sitting in a semicircle on both sides of their Beloved Divine Mother. Her child wished all of them and greetings were returned.

He then told the Great Spirit that he wanted to witness exactly how She had descended on Earth after being requested by the Divine Unity to save humanity. The Great Sancta Maria told him that She would so after meditation.<sup>[1]</sup> All present raised their Kundalinis collectively and went into the thoughtless state.

When they finished Shri Adhiparasakthi Shri Nirmala Devi, stepped down from Her Golden Throne and said to Kash, “Come down to Earth with Me.” He walked to Her as Shri Visva-Garbha Shri Nirmala Devi<sup>[2]</sup> smiled radiantly in Bliss and Joy. She stretched Her hands with palms downturned. Kash was instructed to do the same, but this time with his palms facing upwards but below Her palms, as they were going down to Earth. He did so and they began to descend through the clouds into the vast emptiness of endless space. (This was the first and only occasion that Kash experienced ‘delevitation,’ that is, descending down below the Kingdom of God.)

Her child could see asteroids of all sizes and shapes whizzing past. Occasionally tiny dots grew into gargantuan planets and flew by at astronomical speed. Far away distant stars twinkled. Kash was in a cosmic fairyland sparkling with countless suspended universes that stretched into infinity.

At first Earth was just a tiny dot and he could not recognize it. However, when it grew to in size the familiar features of Earth appeared; a blue ball with slight traces of white. Kash knew that it was Mother Earth as he had seen similar sights on television. As Earth grew larger he could see the outline of the continents and the cloud cover clearly. The womb of humanity never looked more beautiful; a beautiful blue pearl suspended against a backdrop of infinite, mysterious, dark space.

They came fast through the atmosphere and then slowed down rapidly. They landed at the right corner of the St. Joseph and 34th. Avenue T-junction. The Holy Spirit had brought Kash back to Lachine, Montreal! He could see the Resurrection of Our Holy Lord Catholic Church and the Saint-Louis school on his left, with rows of houses on both sides of the road behind. Beside the school was the Dairy Queen outlet where he sometimes came with his family for ice cream. The pier jutting out and plugged by a lighthouse was directly in front. On his right he could see the beach line that ran into a knot of trees at the far end. Across the St. Lawrence Seaway he could see the familiar shoreline where stood a solitary church, a single steeple capped with a spire.

The Great Primordial Spirit stood around with him, casually observing humans, their activities and environment as cars cruised along the picturesque rue St-Joseph. Across the road people were strolling, bicycling, picnicking, fishing, or just sitting around on the benches. Not even a single earthly creature even glanced at them — They were invisible! Kash was sure of this fact as Al-Muddaththir (The Enfolded) Shri Mataji Nirmala Devi was enfolded in a red sari with small colorful flowers and Her dazzling personality, devastating beauty and divine radiance would be obvious to all pedestrians and passengers alike. Yet no one ever looked at Her for She was indeed invisible!

After a while Shri Mataji told Kash that it was time to return. She then held out Her Hands again, asked him to put his palms over Her upturned palms, and levitated him back. They quickly passed through the stratosphere and Earth swiftly disappeared from view. They hurtled into the limitless universe and ascended through different dimensions of the Spiritual Worlds, soon reaching the Highest of All — the Kingdom of Heaven.

The Immortal Ones were still there, waiting for their return. Kash again bowed to them and sat down beside Shri Mataji, who was now seated on Her Golden Throne. They then had another collective meditation after which he asked for leave and returned to this frantic world of stock speculators and currency manipulators.

Note: On May 22, 1997 at 7:30 a.m. Kash was again asked if they were invisible. He replied that they were. He added that this time their bodies were not in the form of the spirit but flesh and blood. He was asked to elaborate. According to him in the Kingdom of God everyone is semi-transparent, that is, in the ethereal form of the spirit. However, after descending down to Earth he noticed that his body was not in the semi-transparent form of the spirit but that of a human. Even the Holy Spirit was all flesh and blood. Yet they were invisible to all human beings.

The Great Primordial Matriarch had proved to Kash that She did indeed descend on Earth as requested by the Messengers of Allah — in flesh and blood human form of Shri Mataji Nirmala Devi !

Shri Adi Shakti: The Kingdom of God, 1999, p. 421-23

---

[1] The Great Primordial Mother attaches the utmost importance to meditation. There was not even a single occasion during all his journeys into the Sahasrara where meditation was forgone, except on two occasions when Shri Mataji Nirmala Devi told Kash to skip it as he would be late for school!

[2] Visva-Garbha(638th): The entire universe is within Her as She is the Mother of the universe.